ABSTRACT The Nigeria Immigration Service (NIS) is a government agency responsible for the control and prevention of exotic diseases in Nigeria. This study evaluates the performance of the NIS in this regard, using a case study of Adalpalm Nigerian Ltd. The study covers a period of six months, from January to June 2023. The research was conducted using a qualitative approach, involving interviews with NIS staff and the management of Adalpalm Nigerian Ltd. The findings of the study indicate that the NIS has made significant progress in the control and prevention of exotic diseases in Nigeria, particularly in the area of border control. However, there are still several challenges that need to be addressed, such as the lack of adequate resources and the need for more staff. The study recommends that the NIS should continue to improve its services and work closely with the private sector to ensure the safety and security of Nigeria.
